Everything worked out fine, but the packaging used by the seller was absolutely minimal. The tools case is similar to an old school sheet metal toolbox. The seller put craft paper inside the case to fission the tool and put two strips of taped cardboard around it and let FedEx have it. I received it with scratches and rubs on the case, but the tool was fine. Don't expect good packaging, but other than a few scrapes and scuffs on the case, the seller did fine.
